I made six pages including three main page which is Home, Popular places and Information showing at home page, and there are three subpages which is Japan, Hong Kong and China under Popular places page.

I finished Home page with slideshows showing different photos of travel places with links ties to a specific page introducing it. And below the slideshows is the Popular places, title with photo and caption at below ties the link towards to that place.

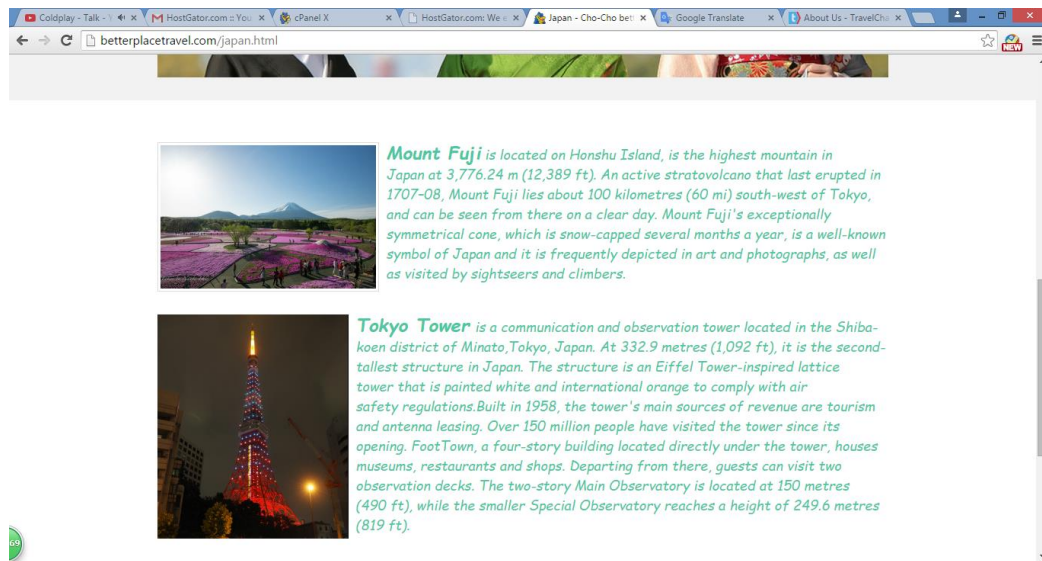

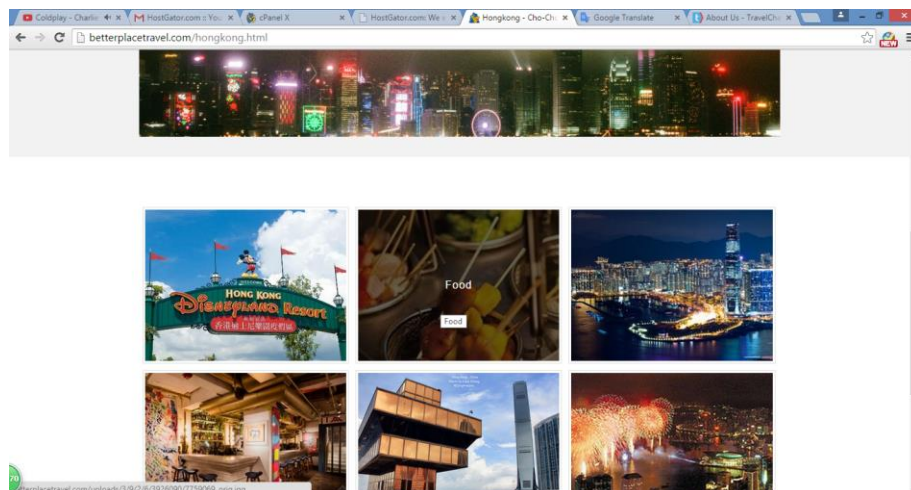

Also, I added brief introduction about my site.

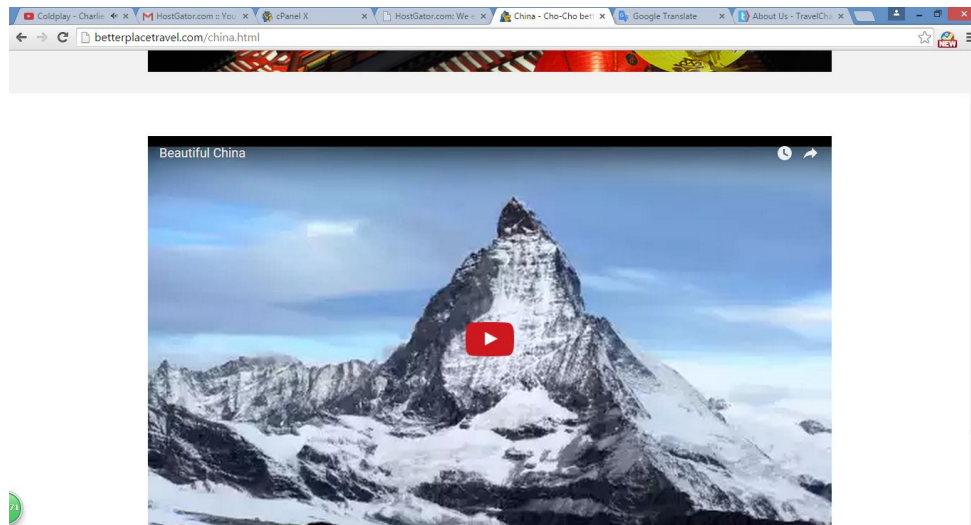

I made three subpages under Popular places which including Japan, Hong Kong and China. For Japan, I put photo with text introducing two attractions which is Mount Fuji and Tokyo tower.

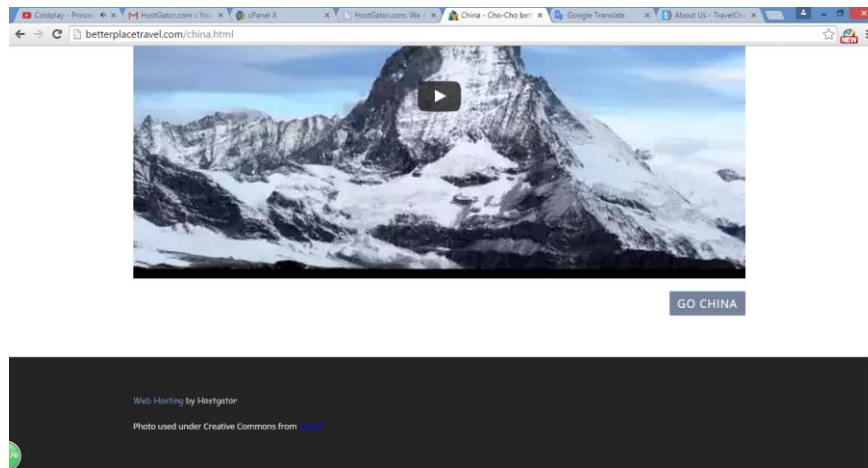

For Hong Kong, I put gallery with six pictures showing different attractions in Hong Kong and put caption on it, when the visitors' mouse move to one of the photo, the caption will come up and showing above the photo.

For China, I put a video from Youtube which introducing China's beautiful views.

All of these three popular places has a button at the end directing into the information page, visitors who interested at the travel place can register and log in and purchase a travel plan.

Information page including question and comment and log in.

I connected the comment section with my email, the comments from customer or visitors will go into my email directly.

Log in button will direct consumer to log in page which is a separate page. I downloaded a log in and register template online and redesigned it use Dreamweaver and uploaded in my Cpanel file management. And put the link into my log in button.so when customer lick log in, log in page will pop up.

For new customers, there is a sign up page also.
